Dear Harold:

How prompt and how thorough -- as always!

Here's the full-page ad for the Lipton in last week's issue of Publisher's Weekly. It appeared on the inside front cover of the issue; on the front cover was the announcement that 100 Years From Now People Will Still Be Talking About This * Book (or some such rave).

You write that there is only one solid thing of which I am aware in the Lipton that did not appear earlier in yours. What is that?

You also mention the requirements of litigation. What does that mean, if you can recall the reference?

I have said hello to Walter and family for you, and shall pass on your fondest wishes to Sally Belfrage. Her husband was the author of THE ELEPHANT MAN, a big two-year Broadway hit, still running.

Was Kerry W. Thornley a Marine buddy of Oswald's. Or is the name simply similar to the buddy (mentioned in the Warren Report, I believe; he may even have been a witness). I think he even tried to write a book.

What did you think of CONSPIRACY, the Summers book?

Who was the reporter who called for the Lipton address? Did he talk with Lipton and do a piece? I'd like to know what the piece says. Why don't you write Letter to the Editor of important periodicals (Post, Times, Publishers' Weekly, 1180 Avenue of the Americas), asserting that if Macmillan knows who killed J.F.K. and how and why -- data ~~is~~ the rest of us don't have -- it has a moral duty to release the material now, not four months from now, Pub. Date.

Please keep in touch. And please be well.

Sincerely,
